

Our Regenerative Leadership Retreats have lasting personal and professional impact by helping leaders:

- Improve service delivery with renewed commitment and energy
- Build strong, supportive relationships with colleagues and regional peers
- Feel support and safety for exploring big questions at the growing edges of their leadership.
- Reflect on what they're doing and why it matters.
- Reconnect with what sustains them physically and spiritually, through rest, solitude, fresh air, and nourishing food.
- Connect with a special guest who brings a rich and seasoned perspective to each group from her/his life and work.

"I didn't expect to connect with the other participants to the depth that I did. I have a very different appreciation for people I've worked with for years. I feel that we created a community in a short time, and it reminded me of how powerful that can be."

Open space for diverse voices and multiple perspectives is crucial for creating trust, healing and wholeness. We work to convene leadership groups that are intergenerational, ethnically diverse and gender balanced, including both mid-career and next-generation leaders.
